

DEVELOPING YOUR CREATIVE PRACTICE

Access support

Developing your Creative Practice is our fund aimed at individual artists, creatives, museums specialists and small collaborating groups to provide support at a key point in their career.

Access support

We want to help people with access needs (for example, those who are disabled or have a physical or mental health condition) to apply to Developing your Creative Practice.

This information sheet explains the types of support we can help with at the different stages of applying for a grant.

Pre-application support

We can help you to find and use our information and services before you apply, and help you if you then want to make an application.

Managing your grant

If your application is successful, we can help to cover access support costs for you or anyone directly involved in shaping the project creatively. This sheet tells you how to show these costs in your application budget.

If your project involves sharing your work with audiences or participants

We can help with the costs of making your work accessible to as many people as possible. This sheet tells you how to show these costs in your application budget.

Pre-application support

We can support you if you're disabled or have a physical or mental health condition that makes it hard for you to access our services and information. This can include help with reading our guidance or making an application.

When finding the best way to help, we will consider cost and practicality, as well as your preference.

What we can pay for at the pre-application stage

- notes to be taken if you are disabled and need this help in one-to-one meetings with the Arts Council
- notes to be taken if you are disabled and need this help to fill in the application form

- a British Sign Language interpreter to support you in one-to-one meetings with the Arts Council
- translating applications made in BSL into written English
- personal assistants if you are involved in the mental health system
- personal assistants if you have a learning disability

Everyone should be able to get information on our grant programmes and decide whether or not to apply. If we do pay for any access support, you do not have to make an application if you feel your project is not yet ready, or if the programme is not right for you.

What we cannot pay for at the pre-application stage

- developing your project, such as the cost of an arts worker or development consultant
- translation from other spoken languages into English
- costs already covered by Access to Work or any other sources

If you cannot read the guidance for applicants

The Guidance for applicants is available as a PDF. If you need another format, such as large print or BSL, or an audio version, please contact us.

The guidance contains diagrams that we may not be able to reproduce in some formats. If we cannot provide the guidance in a format you ask for, we will do our best to find a practical alternative.

Applications, decision letters, payment requests and any related messages, are managed using our online application system. If you cannot use the online system, we can pay for an access support worker to help you use it.

You can work with your access support worker to fill in an offline version of the eligibility questionnaire and application form. Your support worker will then fill in an online application form for you.

If you cannot use the online system, also read the Access support workers and Managing your grant sections of this information sheet.

If you do not have a computer or access to the internet

We can provide support if you cannot physically use a computer, not if you do not have a computer or access to the internet. Your local council might be able to provide access to a computer connected to the internet, or direct you to a service provider who can help, such as a local library.

We can send out printed copies of the guidance. The guidance lists all the application questions, but you will need to fill in your application online.

Access support workers

We can contribute towards the cost of an access support worker who can use the online system on your behalf, or provide support in meetings with us.

If you need to use a support worker, contact our Customer Services team. They will put you in touch with a member of Arts Council staff in your local area who will help you with your request.

We will ask:

- what type of support you need. For example, someone to take notes or a BSL interpreter
- your art form, discipline or project type. For example, a music tour
- your name, address, contact details
- how and when you would prefer us to contact you

You can contact the Customer Services team on 0845 300 6200 or enquiries@artscouncil.org.uk.

Arranging an access support worker

You are responsible for deciding who your support worker will be. You may have a note taker or interpreter that you regularly use. We cannot provide advice on choosing an access support worker. This is a legal restriction.

We will work with you and your support worker to agree when and how they will support you. They should then provide a quote for their services so that we can agree their fee.

Each request is considered based on your individual needs and the level of support you need. We recommend a rate of no more than £300 a day, but we will consider higher fees in exceptional circumstances. If the daily rate a support worker asks for is higher than average, we may ask for other quotes.

Your support worker should send their invoices to the Arts Council contact in your Area office. We will pay them when we know you are satisfied with the work they have done.

How access support workers should use our online system

Access support workers should use your 'user account' to create a profile in your name and using your contact details. They should also set up a user account for themselves with their own username, password and email address.

The support worker should then email grant.management@artscouncil.org.uk with:

- the name and applicant number of your profile; and
- their username and email address.

We will link their user account to the profile in your name. Both user accounts will then be able to work on, and receive notifications about, any applications made.

You can find instructions on how to set up a user account on our website.

Personal access costs – for managing your project and managing your grant online

If we award funding, you may need extra access costs to:

- deliver your project
- manage your grant online

You can use our grant towards these costs. Include them under the budget line 'Personal access costs' in your application.

In your budget, make sure you allow for you unexpectedly needing access support during the project. We cannot increase the size of a grant once it has been awarded.

Including personal access costs in your application

Filling in your eligibility questionnaire

Before you start your application form, you will fill in an eligibility questionnaire that asks whether your budget includes personal access costs.

The maximum amount you can apply to Developing your Creative Practice for is £10,000. However, we don't want your personal access costs to affect whether or not you can apply. For this reason, we do not consider your personal access costs to be part of your request.

Example - Your application is for £10,000 and you also need an extra £500 in personal access costs to manage this. We will consider this as an application for £10,000, rather than £10,500 and you will be eligible to apply.

Filling in your application form and budget

The figure you gave for expected personal access costs in the eligibility questionnaire will show in the basic details section of the application form. It will also show in the 'personal access costs' budget line in the expenditure table.

If you need to change this figure, edit the number in the Basic details section of your application. The figure in your expenditure table will then update itself.

Only include future costs that you will need to help you to deliver your project. Our grants cannot cover any activity or spending that takes place before we can make a decision, including pre-application support.

Managing your grant online

In the 'Personal access costs' part of your budget you can include support for using the online system to manage your grant. This includes managing your user account profile, asking for payments and sending us reports. See the Grantium pages of our website for more information.

We provide all communication relating to your application through our online system and emails. If you cannot receive or read emails due to access needs, you can give us an alternative email address (for example, your support worker's email address).

It is important that any alternative email address you give us belongs to someone you trust. They will receive all grant emails on your behalf. If you want to change an alternative email address, contact our Customer Services team.

If your project involves sharing your work with audiences or participants

Developing your Creative Practice projects do not need to have public facing outcomes. If you want to share your outcomes or work with participants, you can include any costs you will need to pay to make your activity accessible to others.

For example:

- booking a BSL interpreter for your event
- producing publications or materials in other formats such as in Braille or on CD

- paying more to use a wheelchair-accessible venue for an event

You can include this expenditure under the 'Artistic and creative costs' budget line.

Further information

We support some National Portfolio Organisations (NPOs) who have specialist knowledge about accessibility. The organisations below may be able to provide guidance or advice.

- Carousel (learning disability)
- Attitude is Everything (music and outdoor events)
- Shape (audiences)
- Stagetext
- VocalEyes

The government's Access to Work scheme can also help you if you're disabled or have a physical or mental health condition that makes it hard for you to do your job.
